the vicinity of that town. There the disease continued until late in November. Fifteen per cent. of the people of Trenton were affected at the same time. The number of deaths was not reported. The etiology of this epidemic cannot be traced to unusual local causes of an unsanitary character, for none existed in and around Trenton. This disease had not prevailed in this locality to any serious extent for years; indeed, there is no record of any such epidemic there. From July 1st to September 15th, there was almost a continuous drouth. Dr. Happel attributes this epidemic to unusual atmospheric conditions continued sufficiently long to produce such results.

Clarksville was also visited. There were 250 cases and thirty-five to fifty deaths. The majority of cases were leaved to which are dressing and bath-rooms. They have been eminently successful in their endeavors to build up a first-class athletic club here, the roll-call at the first annual meeting showing a large increase in membership, namely; From nine in February, 1883, to fifty-six in February, 1884; the treasurer's report also showing a most satisfactory condition of the finances of the club. At the annual meeting the following officers were elected for 1884: D. J. McComb, president; M. H. McDowell, vice-president; C. C. Currier, secretary and treasurer. This association now assumes an air of permanency, and is fast developing into a representative institution, of which Memphis should feel proud.

Clarksville was also visited. There were 250 cases and thirty-five to fifty deaths. The majority of cases were among whites, but the disease was more ital with the blacks. A number of re-orts were received at the secretary's office of cases of typho-malarial and con-tinued fevers, showing some confusion as to nomenclature. It seems that protracted cases of miasmatic or malarial fevers have been mistaken by some for typhoid fever, or at least some are not very clear whether they were typhoid or enteric fevers, or simply remittents of a continued or protracted type, presenting some of the symptoms of typhoid fever. The latter broke out at Rugby in July.
